Dear Friends,

With so much debate and discussion these days around the American presidency, New-York Historical has taken on a major new role by establishing a Presidential Historical Commission. This exciting—and, we believe, critically important—venture includes programs and exhibitions, as well as special seminars on the presidency for middle school children. The Commission also plans to develop a “ranking” of American presidents, with advice from New-York Historical’s Presidential Historian, Douglas Brinkley, along with Commission members Trustee Annette Gordon-Reed, Trustee Jon Meacham, Patricia O’Toole, and Sean Wilentz.

Thanks to continued support from Trustee Bernard L. Schwartz and a new gift from David M. Rubenstein, our spring programming complements the Commission’s work with a series featuring Douglas Brinkley as moderator with historians Joanne Freeman, Patricia O’Toole, and Sean Wilentz and journalist Peter Baker. Two major exhibitions in our galleries also focus attention on the American presidency, exploring the consequences of American presidents’ decisions in The Vietnam War: 1945–1975, on view through April 22, and Rockwell, Roosevelt & the Four Freedoms, which opens May 25.

A different kind of president is the subject of this spring’s program in our History with David M. Rubenstein series: Drew Gilpin Faust, the outgoing president of Harvard, who will join Mr. Rubenstein for a special conversation on March 20. Other exhibitions on view in our galleries this spring look to fashion as a lens for understanding the past: Walk This Way: Footwear from the Stuart Weitzman Collection of Historic Shoes opens April 20, and Feathers: Fashion and the Fight for Wildlife opens April 6. A new photography show in our Schafler Gallery reflects on Martin Luther King Jr. and Robert F. Kennedy, commemorating two lives cut short by assassins’ bullets 50 years ago.

History, we always say, has the power to change lives. Two programs this spring touch on contemporary events as they demonstrate how the U.S. Constitution has informed the topic of sex. The Diane and Adam E. Max Conference on Women’s History takes on “Sex and the Constitution” all day on March 4, and The Bonnie and Richard Reiss Lecture in Constitutional History and Law explores “Sex, Law, and Politics in the Age of Trump” with Amy Adler and Trustee Akhil Reed Amar on May 15.

We look forward to welcoming you to these stimulating programs and exhibitions in the spring. Already we are gearing up for an amazing roster next fall, including Harry Potter: A History of Magic, a British Library exhibition, which will be on view in our Robert H. and Clarice Smith Gallery and feature special treasures from across the globe as well as from our own Patricia D. Klingenstein Library; and the very timely Black Citizenship in the Age of Jim Crow, a collaboration with Trustee Henry Louis Gates Jr.

With very best wishes,

Louise Mirrer, Ph.D.
President and CEO
Exhibition Highlights

Rockwell, Roosevelt & the Four Freedoms
May 25 – September 2, 2018

Explore how Norman Rockwell’s 1943 paintings—Freedom of Speech, Freedom of Worship, Freedom from Fear, and Freedom from Want—gave visual life to Franklin Roosevelt’s call for the defense of freedom worldwide and took their place among the most enduring images in American art.

Enduring Ideals: Rockwell, Roosevelt & the Four Freedoms has been organized by the Norman Rockwell Museum in Stockbridge, Massachusetts.

Major support for Rockwell, Roosevelt & the Four Freedoms is provided by Jay Alix, the Alix Foundation, and the George Lucas Family Foundation. Presenting sponsor is The Travelers Companies, Inc. Additional support provided by Anonymous, Michael Bakwin, Helen Bing, Elephant Rock Foundation, Ford Foundation, Annie and Ned Lamont, the National Endowment for the Arts, and Ted Slavin.

Lead support for the exhibition at New-York Historical provided by Laurie and Sy Sternberg. Additional support provided by Ira M. and Susan F. Millstein, Ira L. Unschuld in memory of Fay Unschuld, Karen and Paul Isaac, Fiona and Eric Rudin, and Pam and Scott Schaffer. Media sponsorship has been provided by Curtis Licensing, a division of The Saturday Evening Post and The Norman Rockwell Family Agency.

Feathers: Fashion and the Fight for Wildlife
April 6 – July 15, 2018

Commemorate the centennial of the Migratory Bird Treaty Act of 1918 by exploring the history of the seminal law and the circumstances that inspired early activists to champion the unprecedented legislation. Discover evocative paintings, period clothing and accessories, books, ephemera, photographs, and original watercolor models by John James Audubon.

Walk This Way: Footwear from the Stuart Weitzman Collection of Historic Shoes
April 20 – October 8, 2018

Discover the story of the shoe from the perspectives of collection, consumption, presentation, and production. In a new exhibition in the Joyce B. Cowin Women’s History Gallery, explore larger trends in American economic history, from industrialization to the rise of consumer culture, with a focus on women’s contributions as makers, designers, and entrepreneurs.

Exhibitions are made possible by Dr. Agnes Hsu-Tang and Oscar Tang, the Saunders Trust for American History, and the New York State Council on the Arts with the support of Governor Andrew Cuomo and the New York State Legislature. WNET is media sponsor.

New York through the Lens of George Kalinsky
February 2 – June 3, 2018

George Kalinsky, the official photographer for Madison Square Garden and Radio City Music Hall, captured some of New York’s most iconic cultural moments over the past 50 years. Explore Kalinsky’s lastings images of sporting events, legendary performances, and notable occasions that have defined the city.

Support for this exhibition is provided by The May and Samuel Rudin Family Foundation, Inc.

Rebel Spirits: Robert F. Kennedy and Martin Luther King Jr.
February 16 – May 20, 2018

Robert F. Kennedy and Martin Luther King Jr. were born worlds apart—culturally, geographically, racially, financially, and politically. But by the time they were killed within two months of each other in 1968, their worlds had come together. In this exhibition in the Pam and Scott Schaffner Gallery, discover images taken by some of the most renowned photojournalists of the era illustrating the overlapping trajectory of their lives.

Rebel Spirits: Robert F. Kennedy and Martin Luther King Jr. was produced by Wiener Schiller Productions with support from Getty Images, The Jacques Lowe Estate, Steve Schapiro and presented by the New-York Historical Society.

Harry Potter: A History of Magic
Opens October 5, 2018

Advance tickets will be available to Members on February 14, 2018 at 12 pm. Tickets go on sale to the general public in April.

To book your tickets for your journey to where magic and myth began, visit nyhistory.org.

Last Hope Island: Britain and World War II
Thursday, February 8, 6:30 pm | $48 (Members $38) | SOLD OUT

During the Second World War, as the Nazi blitzkrieg rolled over continental Europe and began to occupy nations throughout the region, both government officials and armed forces alike—determined to continue the fight against fascist forces—fled to Britain, considered the “last hope island” holding out against Hitler. Discover how the tide of World War II was forever altered by the collaboration of Europeans exiled in Britain.

Madeleine K. Albright served as the 64th Secretary of State and is currently Chair of Albright Stonebridge Group, Chair of Albright Capital Management, and Chair of the National Democratic Institute for International Affairs. She is the author of six books, including her New York Times best-selling memoir Prague Winter: A Personal Story of Remembrance and War, 1937–1948.

Lynne Olson is a New York Times bestselling author of seven books, including Last Hope Island: Britain, Occupied Europe, and the Brotherhood That Helped Turn the Tide of War.

Stanley Cloud (MODERATOR) is an author and former journalist. He served as Time magazine’s Washington bureau chief from 1989 to 1994.

Schlesinger: The Imperial Historian
Tuesday, February 13, 6:30 pm | $44 (Members $32)

A preeminent public intellectual, the late Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr. served as Special Assistant to President John F. Kennedy and famously popularized the term “imperial presidency” to describe the Nixon administration. Discover how the renowned historian redefined presidential biography and forged an unparalleled legacy by simultaneously writing—and shaping—history.

Richard Aldous, the Eugene Meyer Chair and professor of history at Bard College, is the author of Schlesinger: The Imperial Historian. Eliot A. Cohen (MODERATOR) is an author and former journalist. He served as Time magazine’s Washington bureau chief from 1989 to 1994.

Populism and Democracy
Saturday, February 17, 9:30–11 am | $48 (Members $38)

Following the Friday night screening of the 1949 Oscar-winning classic All the King’s Men—a story based on the real-life 1930s populist Governor of Louisiana, Huey Long—leading legal scholars return to discuss issues related to democracy, corruption, free press, and the law.

Linda Greenhouse is Knight Distinguished Journalist in Residence and Joseph Goldstein Lecturer in Law at Yale Law School. Robert Post is Sterling Professor of Law and former dean of Yale Law School. Kenji Yoshino is Chief Justice Earl Warren Professor of Constitutional Law at NYU School of Law.

Sandra and Richard Rippe Lecture on American History
Hamilton’s Best Friend at the Constitutional Convention
Tuesday, February 20, 6:30 pm | $38 (Members $24)

“The fate of America was suspended by a hair,” declared Gouverneur Morris, the draftsman of the Constitution, about the fateful summer of 1787, when he joined the young nation’s most prominent leaders—George Washington, whom he admired; Benjamin Franklin, whom he teased; and Alexander Hamilton, his dear friend—in Philadelphia. Join us as we follow Morris to the famed Constitutional Convention and discover how the decisive assembly forever altered the course of American history.

Richard Brookhiser is a senior fellow at the National Review Institute and the author of Gentleman Revolutionary: Gouverneur Morris, the Rake Who Wrote the Constitution. Dale Gregory (MODERATOR) is Vice President for Public Programs at the New-York Historical Society.
The Black Calhouns
Thursday, February 22, 6:30 pm | $38 (Members $24)

Author Gail Lumet Buckley, daughter of superstar and activist Lena Horne, explores the remarkable history of her family's experience in America from the Civil War to the civil rights movement. Join her for a story that spans vital moments in American history—from the Jim Crow South to the Harlem Renaissance—and plays host to leaders and icons from W. E. B. Du Bois to Robert Kennedy.

Gail Lumet Buckley is the author of The Black Calhouns: From Civil War to Civil Rights with One African American Family. Jonathan Alter (MODERATOR) is an award-winning journalist and television analyst.

Alabama v. Hamilton and the Fight for Racial Equality
Monday, February 26, 6:30 pm | $38 (Members $24)

In 1963, courts often addressed white witnesses by their honorifics but used black witnesses’ first names. When Mary Hamilton refused to answer questions until addressed by her surname, she was jailed for contempt of court. A year later, the Supreme Court vacated her conviction. Explore the story behind Alabama v. Hamilton and its broader significance within the struggle for racial equality.

Presented in collaboration with the Center for Women’s History at New-York Historical Society

The Battle for the Border States
Wednesday, February 28, 6:30 pm | $44 (Members $32)

During the Civil War, Missouri and Kentucky—the slave-holding Border States dividing North and South—became major battlegrounds, not only for formal combat but also for violent political discord, martial law, governments in exile, and “bushwhackers”—perpetrators of guerrilla warfare that included the Missouri pro-Confederate group, Quantrill’s Raiders. Leading Civil War experts discuss the contentious region’s greater impact on the course of the war and the path to reunion and emancipation.

John F. Marszalek is William L. Giles Distinguished Professor Emeritus at Mississippi State University. Craig L. Symonds is Ernest J. King Professor of Maritime History at the U.S. Naval War College. Harold Holzer (MODERATOR), the author, co-author, or editor of more than 50 books on Lincoln and the Civil War era, is Jonathan F. Fanton Director of the Roosevelt House Public Policy Institute at Hunter College.

The Presidents

Abraham Lincoln
Monday, April 16, 6:30 pm | $38 (Members $24)

For all his other remarkable gifts, America’s 16th President was perhaps most talented of all in the art of political persuasion—both in person and in print. During the Civil War, Lincoln functioned as America’s “communicator-in-chief,” reaching out to an anxious, divided nation with warmth, humor, and eloquence in order to seal the endurance and loyalty of the people. Lincoln Prize winner Harold Holzer takes a new look at this extraordinary wartime leader.

Harold Holzer, the author, co-author, or editor of more than 50 books on Lincoln and the Civil War era, is Jonathan F. Fanton Director of the Roosevelt House Public Policy Institute at Hunter College.

Presented as a part of the Presidential Historical Commission at New-York Historical Society.

Distinguished Lehrman Fellow at N-YHS Lecture

Winston Churchill’s Brushes with Death
Thursday, April 19, 6:30 pm | $44 (Members $32)

One of the most extraordinary things about Winston Churchill becoming British Prime Minister in May 1940 was that he was alive at all. He survived more than 20 near-death experiences in his life, including a very serious accident on Fifth Avenue. Andrew Roberts tells us how they shaped his thoughts on life, ambition, death, and fate.

Andrew Roberts, visiting professor at the War Studies Department at King’s College, London, is currently writing a single-volume, definitive biography of Winston Churchill. His most recent book is Napoleon: A Life.
In the spring of 1963, a state court judge in Alabama ordered Martin Luther King Jr. and his associates to desist from protesting. King disobeyed the injunction, was jailed, and was later prevented from challenging the constitutionality of the order. In the 1967 case Walker v. City of Birmingham, the Supreme Court upheld the Alabama court’s rulings against King, declaring that “respect for judicial process is a small price to pay for the civilizing hand of law.” Did the Supreme Court rule rightly?

Architectural historian Barry Lewis takes us on a journey to Paris, where, in the 19th century, the French became pioneers of iron and glass construction—evolving from early century shopping galleries to the magnificent, mid-century iron-framed Saint Genevieve and National Libraries, to the celebrated fin-de-siècle works: the Grand Palais and Eiffel Tower.

Barry Lewis is an architectural historian who specializes in European and American architecture from the 18th to 20th centuries.

This year marks the 100th anniversary of the end of the First World War. Why did Germany lose the war? What role did the United States play in winning the war? How did the war’s ending lead to an even greater conflict a generation later? John Maurer explores these questions in a lecture on the dramatic and tragic events of 1918.

John H. Maurer, a senior fellow at the Foreign Policy Research Institute, is Alfred Thayer Mahan Professor of Grand Strategy and Sea Power and Distinguished University Professor at the Naval War College.

Presented in collaboration with the Foreign Policy Research Institute

SATURDAY BREAKFAST PROGRAM

C. Richard Hilker Lecture
Images and Imperialism: American Artists and Cuba at the Turn of the 20th Century
Thursday, May 3, 6:30–8 pm | FREE*

George Luks covered the Spanish-American conflict from a bar. Frederic Remington wired his employer from Havana, “There will be no war;” Hearst replied, “You furnish the pictures and I’ll furnish the war.” William Glackens depicted invading Americans, Spanish soldiers, and the Cubans caught between them. After the war, Winslow Homer commemorated the critical battle of Santiago in his ominous Searchlight on Harbor Entrance, Santiago de Cuba. Join us to learn how artists’ responses—documentary, political, and aesthetic—to American involvement in Cuba shaped notions of conflict and imperialism.

Carol Troyen is the Kristin and Roger Servison Curator Emerita of American Paintings at the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston.

This is a special program presented free of charge by the Sansom Foundation, a nonprofit organization that supports numerous causes. Since 2013, the Foundation has held a series of scholarly lectures to celebrate and commemorate the leadership of the late C. Richard Hilker, its past President.

*Please note:
Tickets to this event are strictly limited and must be reserved in advance by calling (212) 485-9268.

Presidents’ Day Weekend: Celebrating the Founders!

Saturday–Monday, February 17–19

Celebrate Presidents’ Day weekend by honoring the men and women who helped form the nation! Come each day for fun Constitution-themed crafts to make and take home, and enjoy Living Historians portraying our Founding Fathers and Mothers, from George Washington to Dolley Madison. All ages.

Presidential Scholars

Sundays, April 15–May 5

Applications due February 28

Budding presidential historians (7th and 8th graders) join renowned presidential scholars to engage in intellectually challenging conversations with peers on the legacy of past leaders. This select group of middle schoolers will hear from New-York Historical’s Presidential Historical Commission. For application information contact alice.stevenson@nyhistory.org.

Meet the Fledglings with the Wild Bird Fund

Saturday, May 12, 2 pm

Have you ever held a fledgling? To celebrate Feathers: Fashion and the Fight for Wildlife, the Wild Bird Fund will introduce families to the city’s wild birds and talk about bird rehabilitation. Participants will have the opportunity to feed a baby bird. Ages 5 and up. $5 per child (in addition to Museum Admission).

Atten-TION! Four Freedoms Fourth of July

Wednesday, July 4

In honor of our exhibition Rockwell, Roosevelt & the Four Freedoms, families will explore World War II and celebrate the freedoms our nation cherishes. Meet Living Historians portraying WWII soldiers and taste a familiar chocolate candy originally made for the warfront. All summer long families can pick up a free family guide to explore the special exhibition. All ages. Free admission for kids 18 and under. Sponsored by American Heritage Chocolate

Summer of Magic: Treasures from the David Copperfield Collection

Weekends, July–August

Discover New York’s history of magic through the amazing collection of David Copperfield. In addition to the historical objects on view, families can pick up a free magical History Detective Briefcase to enjoy hands-on activities, drawing, and illusions to practice, and join our Living Historians in bringing the magical past to life.

FAMILY PROGRAMS

in the Barbara K. Lipman Children’s History Library

Visit nyhistory.org/dchm for more details.

Little New-Yorkers

Tuesdays and Fridays, 3:30 pm; Sundays, 11:30 am

Story time for the littlest visitors! Explore New York through singing, stories, and activities. Ages 3–5. Proudly supported by Macy’s

Stroller Tour Through History

Second Friday of each month, 9:15 am

Grown-ups and toddlers take over the galleries in these early morning tours. Families will sing, move, and explore in these lively and interactive experiences! Ages 3 and under. $25 per family ($20 for Members).

Reading into History

Select Sundays through June, 2 pm

Families explore history together—through literature! Each month families gather to discuss a book, meet authors and guest experts, and see original artifacts related to the history behind the story. Upcoming meetings will focus on Smile by Starlight featuring author Sharon Draper on February 11 and It Ain’t So Awful, Falafel! featuring author Firoozeh Dumas, recipient of New-York Historical’s 2016 New Americans Children’s Book Prize, on March 18. Ages 9–12 and their adults.

Freedoms

In honor of our exhibition Rockwell, Roosevelt & the Four Freedoms, Kids will explore the history behind Roosevelt’s Four Freedoms. Rockwell’s artistic interpretations of them, and examples throughout American history when those ideals have been tested. Campers will then create their own Four Freedoms poster series, to be displayed for family and friends at the end of each session. Rising 6th, 7th, and 8th grade students. $600 ($550 for Family Members). Early bird special: Register by May 4 and receive a $50 discount. Limited financial aid available. camphistory@nyhistory.org

LIVING HISTORY:

The Past Comes to Life

Select Saturdays and Sundays

Join us to meet soldiers, musicians, leaders, and craftspeople from the past—all portrayed by Living Historians from the present. Jump into a historic military training drill, ask a founder how they kicked-started the nation, or check out a traditional instrument or skill! This season, don’t miss Harriet Tubman on March 30 and 31, woman suffragists marching for the vote in 1917 on March 24 and 25, and a touch table of objects from the Vietnam War on April 21 and 22. All ages.

Thank You to Our Supporters

The Campaign for New-York Historical Society

The New-York Historical Society launched a major campaign to secure our future as a preeminent center for American history. Funding has strengthened our endowment, fueled new exhibitions, and made possible the latest phase of our institution’s expansion—the renovation of the Henry Luce III Center. We gratefully acknowledge those making gifts of $10,000 and above to the campaign, and thank all those who have contributed to its success.
